Pages Tuesday, May 17, 2009 I couldn't think of anything exciting to write about this weekend so I am writing this to vent. But first, I just want to say that I am going to post more often. No promises though. And I will be posting about the Beyer Dogs tour. Which I really really didn't expect to be doing. Which I also really really didn't want to do, but I got a crazy kind of over the top proposition to do so. Which I thought about it for about 5 days and eventually signed my name on the dotted line. Which I am done. That's it. Really. No more for me. If you didn't like me, you can stop reading. I mean it. You were just a vestigial earwax-logy you who just wanted to know what I ate for dinner and a million likes on Facebook and a hundred followings on Twitter. All of that is meaningless now. And if you didn't take me seriously, I am truly sorry. This is not a post about me, which is partially why I picked such a compelling, memorable headline. But, by picking such a catchy headline, if I had posted this as something trivial, like where I ate dinner, people might not have read it
